CITY AND DISTRICT.

Vacancies to Be Filled. The vacancies existing in the office of historian and the board of managers of the Sons of the American Revolution, District of Columbia Society, will be filled at a special meeting called for 8 o'clock tonight, at the board of trade rooms, in the Ames building, 1410 G street northwest.

Superintendent Bristow Honored. Pierson H. Bristow, superintendent of one of the departments of the Calvary Baptist Sunday school, and an energetic Sunday school worker, was honored at the recent convention in Boston of the International Sunday School Union. He was made a member of the executive com-mittee, which is composed of eleven members and has for its chairman B. F. Jacobs of Chicago, the well-known Sunday school worker and singing evangelist. The members of Calvary Church are pleased at the distinction conferred upon their associate, and are glad that Washington city is represented on the executive board of the international union.

The Law Evaded.

Yesterday afternoon in the Police Court Frederick W. Dieste was given a trial on a charge of being an unlicensed wholesale liquor dealer. This is the case which was brought by a committee of the Drivers' Association, of which Dieste is not a member, and the case which resulted indirectly from the beer boycott. The defendant claimed that he was in the employ of Mr. Charles Jacobson, the well-known bottler, and sold on a salary and commission. It was claimed that many of his patrons lived in the mile limit, where he drove about selling beer, and not delivering beer that had been or-dered from the bottling establishment. Witnesses also told of boxes of Pabst beer that had been sold by the defendant, and the latter explained that the Milwaukee beer had been delivered as an accommodation. For the District it was contended that this way of doing business was an evasion of the law, and the jury so found. When a verdict of guilty was rendered counsel gave notice of a motion for a new trial.

The Fourth at Cape May.

The Cottagers' Association of Cape May has perfected arrangements to have an oldfashioned Fourth of July celebration on the lawn at Congress Hall. One of the chief features will be the raising of an immense American flag, 30x54 feet. When the flag is unfurled from a pole 160 feet high thousands of miniature flags hidden in its folds will flutter out and fill the air falling. Prof. Will flutter out and fill the air failing. Froi. Ludlam will deliver an ode he has written for the occasion. "The Star-Spangled Banner" and other patriotic airs will be rendered by Mr. Simon Hassler's Orchestra, and Congressman Loudenslager will make an address. After supper there will be a grand display of fireworks, and a hop at night. The grand march will be led by 300 children dressed in patriotic colors. There will be an exhibition of fancy dancing by Master Gillespie and other children of Cape

THE POLICE COURT

Bathers Caught Swimming in an Agricultural Grounds Lake.

Other Cases of a More Serious Nature Cases Caused by Indulgence in Beer.

Yesterday's weather was warm, and s Daniel Smothers and Sam Contee, colored cart drivers, concluded that they would take a bath when their carts were laid off for the afternoon. They are not prosous enough to live in houses with modern improvements, and in the absence of a bath tub at home they started in the direction of the river, intending to enjoy the water. But before they reached the river front their attention was attracted to a lake in the Agricultural grounds. The street and shrubbery about the lake, they thought, was dense enough to hide them from the public road, and the water was so well shaded that they thought there was no danger of a sun stroke. There were some small boys in the lake when they reached the attractive pool, and by them they were assured that the police would not trouble them. This was sufficient guarantee for them, and so, taking off their clothes, they went in. Both men were splashing about in the water and having a good time when Policeman Brown saunter-ed over there from the bathing beach, and found the violators of the law.

But his appearance there did not frighten the colored men, who were certain that they were rightfully there, but when he called them out and told them that they were violating the law they were apparent-ly sorry that they had not made themelves scarce.
"You boys are violating the law," the officer said to them, "and are under ar-"For what?" inquired one of the bathers.

"It's against the law to be bathing in Then they were marched off to the station and locked up, and this merning they marched into Judge Kimball's court as members of the procession.
"You young men should have known you were doing wrong," said the court. "There were some boys here the other day for this, and I lct them go, but hereafter fines will be imposed. Why did you not go to the bathing beach?" Cause we didn't have no bathing suit," was the response.

"You don't have to have a bathing suit," the judge told them; "all that is necessary is a shirt and a pair of trousers."

"Then we'll go there next time."
"You will have to pay $2 each." Caused by Drink.

Peck Adams, colored, who is a familia character in court, was in the procession tecause of his usual intemperance. He was in his ash cart yesterday, and was so much under the influence of liquor that he was unable to control his animal.

"I'm guilty, yo' honor," he said, "but if you trust me, I'll pay you. I was doing some sodding at the Chinese minister's yesterday, and, of course, when I got through, I drank a little more beer than I had any right to drink."
"And you knew it was wrong?"

"Of course I did, but any working man's liable to drink too much and fall down." "You are fined $5," said the court, "and will have to go down unless the fine is paid. Dan Shea, a young man, who was once a respectable member of society, was in the toils because he was found drunk and lying on the sidewalk last night.

"I'm guilty," he answered, when arraigned on a charge of obstructing the sidewalk, and went down in default of fine. "I've tried to reform," said a young col-ored man named Raymond Beckett, "but

Maher and Harrison appeared as witnesses

They are members of the "Growler Rushers'" Society, but other than the fact that they drink beer there was not much against "I saw one of the women get three cans of beer within ten minutes' time," said one of the officers. Lawyer Ricks thought it hardly necessary to make a defense, but he called the wo-men, and the court heard their statements It turned out that they are working wo-men, and most of them are employed dur-ing the day, but they will drink after sun-

"Now, your honor," said counsel, "fine feathers may make fine birds, but beneath tattered garments and distorted faces there may be honest hearts. These people do get buckets of beer, but there are many poor people who live on bread and beer, because they are cheap. They can't buy soft crabs and porterhouse steaks, but this does not show that they are vagrants."

Judge Kimball, commenting on beer drink-ing by women, said it was unfortunate that the law even permitted them to enter saloons. This kind of drinking, the judge told the women, is debasing to their sex. In conclusion he took their personal

MEETING OF ELECTRICIANS.

Movement Started to Inaugurate Municipal Direction of the Profession At the meeting of the Alumni Association of the Bliss School of Electricity held last night a committee was formed to impress upon the District Commissioners the necessity of asking Congress to create a board of electrical examiners to license all branches of the electrical profession practiced here. After unanimously electing Dr. Charles M. Emmons president and Mr. R. B. Grubbs secretary and treasurer, and arranging for an excursion and banquet at Marshall Hall, July 25, a number of interesting papers were read, including "Recent Progress in Electric Railroads," by Prof. Charles S. Pardoe; "General Electrical Progress," by Mr. W. W. Christmas; "Progress of Electricity in Medicine and Surgery," by Dr. Charles M. Emmons: "Progress of Electricity in Medicine and Surgery," by Dr. Charles M. Emmons; "Progress of Electricity in Patents," by Mr. A. E. Dowell, and a paper on "The Electro-Planetary Theory and Modern Applications of Electricity," by Prof. Louis Denten Bliss.

It was stated to be understood that Mr. Ross will deliver the address of welcome at the opening of the convention.

The work of the Federation of Afro-American Women, Mrs. Booker T. Washington, president, was indorsed and the members of the auxiliary decided by a unanimous vote to unite with that organization.

It was also voted to invite the young wo-men of the W. C. T. U. of the Nineteenth Street Baptist Church and the Berean Baptist Church to assist at the reception to the delegates to the convention,

Good Work.

The ladies' auxiliary committee was organized in April, 1895, to work up an interest in the District concerning the Atlanta exposition exhibits. Besides doing, in the most acceptable way, that work, it also organized the Congress of Colored Women, which met in Atlanta December 27-29, and brought together there the most effective workers among colored women in the country. The good effects of the congress have spread far and wide, and are acknowledged by the best-thinking people of the country.

This committee has among its membership some of the strongest advocates for the uplifting tendencies of the race. Mrs. B. K. Bruce, its president, has been engaged actively in moral and industrial work among the poor in various sections of the city since 1884, and conducts regular weekly mothers' meetings at the foot of Howard University, in the mission, assistored man named Raymond Beckett, "but yesterday I got out with some fellows and drank too much beer. I can't stand much, anyhow."

The usual fine was imposed.

Tomorrow, Friday. July 3, at Kenny's Seven City Stores.

The great day of independence will soon be here, the day that gladdens young and old hearts alike. C. D. Kenny will commemorate this great occasion tomorrow (Friday), July 3, by presenting to his customers and all lovers of art

a superbly colored art lithograph, entitled

Payne expressly for C. D. Kenny. The artist has taken a very happy subject—that of a beautiful golden-baired, barefooted girl of about six summers. Her light, airish dress in filled to overflowing with beautiful "June Roses," probably for her big sister's wedding.
